

Public Comment to the U.S. Commission on Ocean Policy

Mr. Watkins. You are right that the Oceans are in Trouble and every living creature in them are in trouble, and the work you and your commission is doing is vital to finding the sources of the problem and doing something to correct it. But let me point out that experimenting with sonar sound in the Oceans by the Navy IS NOT a solution.

Permanent damage will be done to Whales, Dolphins, and other sea creatures. ?????!!! How can they continue such a program knowing that it is dangerous and devastating to marine life. In fact, a big percentage of our environmental problems come directly from Government programs. What can you do about this Navy fiasco??

Thanks

Roger Jones
Newnan, Georgia